

SNACK-O-MATIC – Food dispensing machine

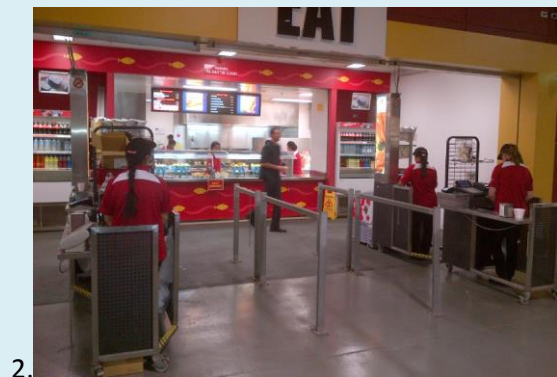

Food dispensing for large volumes of customers more efficiently !!

The snack-o-matic machine will sell the same product, in a heated or chilled compartment with no sales staff.

The food preparation area is to remain the same but where the self-service food counter is located would be the snack-o-matic machines with the option to pay via Bank Note, Paywave, Paypass and/or NFC technology. Each food outlet / service counter only sells a small selection of the same products repeatedly.

The below pictures show what is currently happening with the food outlets in stadiums:

The first two pictures show the Sales staff waiting for a sale whilst the game /entertainment is being played or performed. No Sales but still costing wages whilst nothing is being sold.

Photos were taken at Suncorp Stadium – NRL game

The third picture shows the Food is being prepared and left in the open warmer by the kitchen staff behind, which is then picked by the customer. As this is an open area customers are able to touch multiple products before selecting the one they want. This can be unhygienic and lead to spoilage of the product.

The fourth picture shows the line-up for the cashiers to pay.

The 4xCashiers are in the middle with lines forming for hot food from either side and down the centre aisle.

The lines cross over with customers joining from the side trying to get to the middle of the service counter for the hot food in effect lining up twice, once for the product and the other for the cashier.

If the product is not available in the warmer the lines grind to a halt holding up the customers behind who wish to buy the available products.

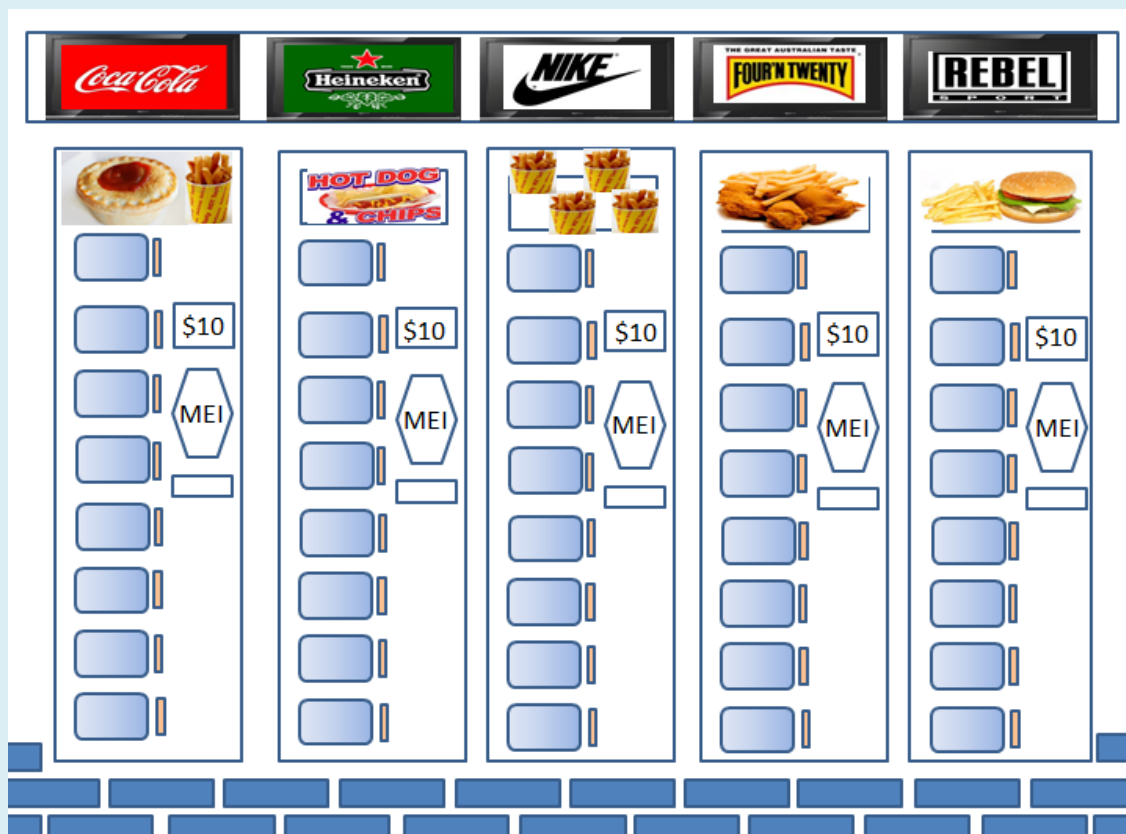

With the snak-o-matic concept the customer only needs to line up for the product they require and can be guaranteed that the product they vend is fresh (hot or cold) and sold in tamper free hygienic conditions. The machines are temperature and humidity controlled with a TCS (time control system) system that lets customers know how fresh the product is.

As the machine acts as a cashier you do not have to pay wages, set rosters, find replacement staff or provide training to sell your products.

Each row can sell the hot / cold snacks and you only line up once for the product that you require.

The machines can be spaced evenly apart and allow for customers to queue and move away without crossing lines. Advertising or the game / concert can be run across the top of the machines so when customers are waiting they do not miss out on the entertainment.

A row of machines showing the Item, the payment option and the Advertising (artist impression)

From the kitchen behind where the units are filled using the already existing infrastructure to produce the product and kitchen staff.

There are many applications for the Snack-o-matic machines, from Stadiums. Large entertainment venues, Food trucks, Transport Hubs (airport, train stations) Fast Food outlets etc and are currently in use across Europe for many large organisations.

Contact: contact@no4rk.com.au

Website: www.no4rk.com.au